Big boost for buses

BUSES will be getting a big boost next month thanks to an extra £750,000 being invested by Lancashire County Council to make sure more people have a service they can rely on for regular journeys.

A number of improvements will be made to existing links, particularly in rural areas, and with vital services such as hospitals, as well as increases in frequency of some services where there is strong demand.

In West Lancashire, it will help restore a Sunday and Bank Holiday daytime service between Preston and Ormskirk via Tarleton.

It will also support the weekend daytime Service 300 between Liverpool, Haskayne, Halsall and Southport. This routes through the western rural communities of West Lancashire linking with Southport and Liverpool.

Lancashire County Council received the extra funding following a successful bid to the Department for Transport's 'A better deal for bus users' programme.

The investment will meet a number of outstanding requests for bus services received from residents, local councillors and MPs, as well as building on improvements introduced in December 2017 when the county council increased its annual budget for buses.

TRADERS 'FILLED WITH JOY' AS MARKET RETURNS

Report by Danielle Thompson

ORMSKIRK Market has reopened in a further huge boost to traders and shoppers in the town.

The market was welcomed back last Thursday (June 18) and despite rotten weather to greet its return, stallholders have their fingers crossed that the promised brighter weather this week together with the further relaxation of restrictive lockdown measures will soon see an upturn in business.

Its return will, to begin with, see limited numbers of stalls and a new layout as part of 'carefully considered' coronavirus safety measures. Cont. inside

Hotter Shoes prepares to close 65 stores as lockdown takes its toll

Report by Tom Martin

HOTTER Shoes is preparing to close 65 of its 80 stores across the UK and make mass redundancies due to the impact of the coronavirus.

The Skelmersdale-based shoe manufacturer plans to restructure through a company voluntary arrangement (CVA) as it looks to focus more on online sales following a lockdown period that is crippling retail businesses up and down the country.

Hotter Shoes owners, Electra, say they were already looking to move towards a "digitisation strategy", but the COVID-19 outbreak has "intensified" this need.

If the CVA proposal is approved and successfully implemented in the coming days, it will leave Hotter Shoes with only 15 shops.

The future of its store on Lord Street, in Southport, remains unclear at this time.

The shoe manufacturer has started a formal consultation with staff at its head office and factory in Skelmersdale, which could see the loss of around 120 local jobs.

Ian Watson, Hotter CEO, said: "The consequences of the last three months of lockdown has been the need to accelerate our digitisation strategy. If successful the proposed CVA will secure the future of a smaller, sustainable business and save over 350 jobs. We understand this is a difficult time for our colleagues and would like to thank them for all their hard work and understanding."

Electra, which is a private equity firm, said that the management of Hotter had been in discussions with a number of its retail landlords to find an agreement to reduce the number of stores to a level and cost that allows Hotter to remain viable.

However, these discussions were unsuccessful, triggering the need to start a CVA.

Hotter Shoes, which was founded in Skelmersdale in 1959, is one of the UK's biggest shoe retailers, making 1.6 million shoes last year.

The company boasts "one of the most advanced shoe making facilities in the world" at its factory in Skelmersdale, enabling them to make a pair of shoes every 20 seconds.

Ormskirk packed with visitors at the 2019 Motorfest

Fate of this year's Ormskirk MotorFest set to be decided

THE fate of the Ormskirk MotorFest will be decided by the end of this week, according to West Lancashire Borough Council chiefs.

Thousands of visitors flock to the annual event in August each year, with the 10th annual event due to be held on Sunday, August 30, organised by the Aintree Circuit Club and West Lancashire Borough Council.

Due to social distancing guidelines, a wide variety of popular family-friendly events have been cancelled across Sefton and West Lancs. These include the Southport Food and Drink Festival, Southport Flower Show, Southport Air Show and the British Musical Fireworks Championships.

Council chiefs and Aintree Circuit Club are in the process of deciding whether to host the event, with social distancing measures in place, or postpone/cancel it.

Aintree Circuit Club first hosted Ormskirk MotorFest in 2011, where an estimated 7,000 people wandered through the streets of Ormskirk, soaking up the atmosphere and taking in the sights of hundreds of cars and motorcycles, lining the town's streets.

Last year, estimated figures given by West Lancs Council put the attendance at around 40,000 people.

It's great to be back - even with social distancing measures firmly in place across the town centre

It's good to be back, say traders as Ormskirk's outdoor market returns

The reopening was greeted by stallholders as 'great news' with one thrilled trader, saying: "I saw the vans pulling up on my run at 6am, ready to set up, and it filled me with joy! Welcome back."

A spokesperson for West Lancs Borough Council announced the re-opening of the outdoor market in an online post on the borough council's website at 5pm the Wednesday before it reopened the following day.

The post read "We know many of you have been waiting patiently to be able to come out and show your favourite traders your support and so we want to make sure you can do so safely."

"The number of traders has been limited and the layout of the market has been carefully considered."

"The traders planned to be operating will be selling groceries, fast food, clothing, accessories, bedding and towels, sportswear and children's clothing."

"We anticipate that all traders will be able to return soon."

A spokesperson for Discover Ormskirk, the official tourism page for West Lancashire, said: "The rain hadn't dampened too many spirits in Ormskirk on June 18!"

"It was delightful to see some familiar faces back on Ormskirk Market and supporting social distancing."

"We also couldn't be happier to see some of our favourite shops re-opened and doing everything they can to help you feel safe whilst you shop."

"Thank you to those who came out to support them in their first big step back to (some kind of) normality."

Commenting on Discover Ormskirk's cheery Facebook post about reopening, social media users described the reopening as 'lovely' and 'amazing to see.'

Joan Branwood said: "Good to be back, shame the weather wasn't kind to us, but it didn't dampen our spirits!"

Thomas James Reardon added: "I saw the vans pulling up on my run at 6am, ready to set up and it filled me with joy! Welcome back!" while Suzanne Connell added: "It was wonderful to shop at the market again, thanks to all the stall holders."

There will be lots of signage in Ormskirk Town Centre reminding shoppers to observe social distancing measures.

If you are planning a visit, the council are reminding that you please be careful to allow others adequate space to shop safely and wear a face covering if you are able to, although facecoverings are not compulsory.

Patients urged to book appointment online to see GP

WEST Lancashire residents are being reminded to use free online tools such as 'myGP' and 'Patient Access' to make GP appointments and order repeat prescriptions.

Patient Access and myGP are available to anyone online or through their smartphones app store.

Simply search 'myGP' or 'Patient Access' in the app store, or online by visiting patientaccess.com/ or www.mygp.com/. If registering for the first time, patients can get their login details to use either app from their own registered GP practice.

Some of the benefits to be gained from using the apps include to book or cancel appointments and order repeat medication.

The CCG is promoting the use of Patient Access and myGP as a free option for patients to help them access making GP appointments as well as helping patients to manage and order their repeat prescriptions.

Dr Peter Gregory, local GP and chair at NHS West Lancashire CCG, said: "The world is now moving at such a fast pace and there is a great need for the NHS to keep up with this pace."

"To do this we need to embrace technology and look at how it can be used for the benefit of both practices and patients."

"We know that people need to be able to access information quickly and easily at just a few clicks and how the NHS can support this is by ensuring that how we manage our health can be done in this same way."

"Not everybody has access to the internet and therefore traditional methods of making a GP appointment or ordering their repeat prescriptions, such as by phone will continue to be made available."

"However, for those people with access to the internet and or a smartphone we would strongly encourage the use of apps such as myGP and Patient Access to not only help you manage your health in a more convenient way, but also to help ease pressure on our busy GP practices and pharmacy staff."

Councils across Lancashire agree to explore creation of combined authority

WEST Lancashire Borough Council has come to an agreement with other local councils from across Lancashire to explore the creation of a combined authority.

At a meeting of all Lancashire council leaders earlier this month, a unanimous decision was taken for the councils to work together more closely to improve the economy of Lancashire, addressing issues such as transport and inward investment.

In a statement issued on behalf of all council leaders in Lancashire, including West Lancs Council Leader Ian Moran, councillors agreed that: "All councils in Lancashire agree to continue to explore the possibility of working together with our local authority partners to investigate setting up a combined authority to embrace the county's future economic opportunities."

The agreement needs to be ratified by each of the councils represented and will be subject to local democratic processes.

Other areas of the UK which have set up a combined authority have seen a boost to investment in the economy, infrastructure and skills. County Councillor Geoff Driver, Leader of Lancashire County Council, said: "The creation of a combined authority is a great opportunity for the whole of Lancashire. The principle has been positively endorsed by Lancashire County Council's Cabinet."

West Lancashire Borough Council Leader Ian Moran

Council leaders acknowledged that the delivery of local government functions may need to be simplified in the combined authority area. They have agreed to explore models of devolution and improved governance arrangements in the future.

Councillor Alyson Barnes, Leader of Rossendale Borough Council, and Chair of the District Leaders Forum, said: "Councils in Lancashire are keen to work together for the benefit of all our residents and businesses across Lancashire."

"The interest in a combined authority for Lancashire stems from the ability to access greater Government funding to assist the growth of businesses and stimulate the economy."

Agreeing to set up a combined authority requires government approval.

The agreement in Lancashire is the beginning of a process of negotiation with the government to set up the combined authority and the agreement of a 'devolution deal'.

A specific timeline for the establishment of the combined authority will be determined when the agreement of the 'devolution deal' becomes clearer in the coming months.

West Lancashire Borough Council declined to comment further.

Boost for county's buses

While the current advice is to only use buses where absolutely necessary to prevent the spread of coronavirus, the county council recognises that they still play a vital part in keeping people connected, providing access to local services, employment, health and education.

The county council's supported bus service network has resumed normal operation, after initially operating to a Saturday timetable at the beginning of lockdown.

County Councillor Andrew Snowden, lead member for buses, said: "We've made improving public transport one of our top priorities as it's vital to people's daily lives and our local economy, with many people relying on buses to get to work, access education and other services, do their shopping and visit friends."

"This new funding will help to build on the investment we've already made in restoring links for communities which might otherwise have no or very little public transport, and supports the commercial network to ensure transport connections across the county are as effective as possible."

"Some of the improvements being introduced this summer will also increase the frequency of a number of services where there is most demand, developing more attractive and sustainable services for the future."

The changes are due to be made from Sunday, July 19. More details on the service improvements will be made in the coming weeks.

Council welcomes school funding boost

LANCASHIRE County Council has welcomed news that schools will receive extra funding to help pupils catch up on teaching missed during the coronavirus lockdown.

The government announced a £1billion package of measures on Friday, June 19 which will give schools access to extra tutoring for children who have fallen behind with academic work, as well as more general support outside the classroom for those who need it.

The catch-up lessons will be available to pupils from all year groups in both primary and secondary schools, and can be accessed by all schools, but will be targeted particularly at those serving disadvantaged communities where the impact of missed education is likely to be greatest.

County Councillor Philippa Williamson, cabinet member for children, young people, and schools, said: "The funding announcement is very welcome as it will help to support the plans which our schools are already making to ensure pupils can catch up on learning which they've missed since lockdown began.

"Decisions about how to spend the available funding will be down to schools as they know best how to support their pupils, however we will be working closely with schools and parents to keep them informed."

Man, 53, is sentenced for making threats by letter to West Lancs MP

A MAN who sent threatening letters to MP Rosie Cooper, along with other high ranking politicians, has been jailed for five years.

Rakeem Malik, 53, was sentenced at Birmingham Crown Court on Thursday, June 18.

He was described by a judge as a 'dangerous offender' and an extended licence period was imposed on him, along with the life sentence he is already serving.

Malik, who uses a wheelchair, sent three letters to the West Lancashire MP, addressed to her constituency office in Ormskirk, in May 2019, and they were read by one of her staff members.

Vile threats were made in the letters, including "Jo Cox was murdered by Thomas Mair and we are going to kill you the same way."

Jo Cox, who was a Labour MP for Batley and Spen, was murdered in June 2016 when she was fatally shot and stabbed outside a library.

MP Cooper, who joined the sentencing hearing via Skype, said she "was angered and disconcerted" by the threats.

Malik also threatened to kill Boris Johnson and his girlfriend Carrie Symonds, as well as former Prime Minister Theresa May, and Labour MP Jess Phillips.

Malik is already serving a life sentence, handed to him in 1999, for the attempted murder of another patient at Ashworth Hospital, in Maghull.

He has also been previously convicted of possessing an offensive weapon, indecent assault and assault on a police officer.

At an earlier hearing, he had pleaded guilty to three counts of making threats to kill MP Cooper.

Members of the Southport Hospital Covid RECOVERY study team

Life-saving research at hospital plays vital part in COVID-19 breakthrough

Report by Danielle Thompson

COVID 19 patients at Southport and Formby hospital played vital roles in the development of a drug hailed as a breakthrough in the fight against the disease, it has been revealed.

Research at the hospital in Town Lane, Kew, which also involved NHS staff at Southport and Ormskirk NHS Trust, was instrumental in trials of a low-cost steroid called dexamethasone which has been found to reduce death rates among the most severely ill coronavirus patients admitted to hospital.

It is claimed the risk for patients placed on ventilators was cut by a third, and the risk for patients on oxygen was reduced by a fifth, leading to England's Chief Medical Officer, Chris Whitty, announcing that the trial was the 'most important trial result for Covid-19 so far.'

Dr Ashar Ahmed, Clinical Director of Medicine at Southport and Ormskirk Hospital NHS Trust, said: "I want to thank and congratulate, along with my co-investigators Dr Arvind Nune and Dr Stefania Pintus, the whole team here who participated in the trial.

"We have been privileged and greatly enjoyed being part of the Recovery study. Although it was a challenge at an extremely busy time, we recognised this would offer an opportunity for our patients to receive treatment as part of the trial which otherwise they would not have had access to."

Jeanette Anders, Research Development and Innovation Manager, at the trust added: "The study was led by our research team, medical team, Covid wards and pharmacy, all of whom were committed and instrumental to the success of this vital work.

"The Trust is contributing to a number of urgent Covid public health research studies and firmly believes that every patient should have the opportunity to participate in this important research, leading to improved treatment options and better outcomes for our patients."

Police Commissioner to continue scrutiny of officers following lockdown praise

LANCASHIRE'S Police and Crime Commissioner Clive Grunshaw has vowed to continue the scrutiny of Lancashire police, supporting and challenging to make sure the force is doing everything it can to keep people safe and tackle crime.

Having regular meetings with the Chief Constable and other senior leaders within Constabulary and the Commissioner's office is a key part of holding the force to account against the Police and Crime Plan, with these moving online during the COVID 19 pandemic.

Topics included the ongoing response in relation to coronavirus and working with the public on the rules and regulations, the 101 service and increased number of crimes being reported online and the peaceful protests that have taken place in the county in relation to the 'Black Lives Matter' movement.

The Commissioner said: "As the public's voice in policing it is really important to me that I raise issues that are important to people and ensure that policing in Lancashire is delivering the efficient, effective service that the public expect and deserve.

"After once again been named as outstanding when it comes to the way we use the resources at our disposal, it is crucial that we continue to maintain this high quality of service and the high standards of service that we have built here in Lancashire.

"The way the service has risen to the unique challenges brought by the pandemic, adapting the work that they do whilst still ensuring that day to day policing continued to keep people safe and take criminals off our streets, has been hugely impressive and I will continue to act as a critical friend to the force as we all work together to deliver for Lancashire."

Suspected arson attack at empty office building

FIREFIGHTERS were called out to an empty office building following a suspected arson attack.

Emergency services from Lancashire Fire and Rescue Service were sent to the derelict commercial property on High Street, Skelmersdale, at around 5pm on Saturday, June 20. The fire was in the ground floor of the office building.

Firefighters were at the scene for nearly an hour and the police were asked to attend as the fire was deemed to be 'suspicious'.

Council fly the flag for Armed Forces Week

A SPECIAL flag to mark the build up to Armed Forces Day has been raised by Lancashire County Council.

Armed Forces Day is a national event which takes place on Saturday, June 27 and the flag raising marks the start of a week of activities leading up to the national celebration.

The flag, which was raised by the council on Monday, June 22, shows support and appreciation for the contribution made by our servicemen and women past and present, and for the wider armed forces community of families, veterans and cadets.

The flag is usually raised by the Lord-Lieutenant of Lancashire at a special ceremony. However, there was no event this year due to the Covid-19 outbreak and lockdown restrictions.

HM Lord-Lieutenant of Lancashire, The Lord Shuttleworth KG KCVO, said: "The Armed Forces Day flag is a great way to show how we are all grateful for the people who serve their country, what they have done for us and the contribution they make to our county.

"This is particularly important at this time as we acknowledge the vital role the forces are playing during the coronavirus outbreak supporting with testing and other vital tasks.

"Although our ceremony and others have been affected by lockdown, many Armed Forces Day flags will be flying in districts across Lancashire this week."

County Councillor Alf Clempson, champion for armed forces and veterans, added: "I'm pleased we are once again supporting Armed Forces Week.

"As well as flying the flag, we're encouraging our employees to take part in activities, virtual events and tune in to the Armed Forces Day podcast to mark the celebration.

"Although most of the events for this year are now virtual, I'd encourage people to visit the national Armed Forces Day website to find out more."

Writers' group given £500 to help publish new anthology

MEMBERS of the Skelmersdale Writers' Group, a community group dedicated to the promotion of writing, have been boosted by a £500 donation from the Co-operative Bank.

The donation will support the creation and publishing of an anthology themed on historic Lathom House and New Park for the benefit of the local community of Skelmersdale and surrounding areas.

Secretary Carol Fenlon said: "We have been considering this project for some time but did not have the funds in place to produce the anthology so this award from the Co-op Bank is a wonderful opportunity to promote the group and involve local people in contributing to the book as well as reading it!"

"Many people still do not know very much about the history of Lathom House or of the powerful families that lived there."

"Submissions for the anthology are welcomed and can be fiction, poetry, memoir or creative non-fiction. Anyone interested in writing for the anthology can contact me at writeme@carolfenlon.com, phone 01695 728320 or check our facebook and Twitter pages."

Awards to recognise teachers who went 'above and beyond' during lockdown

WEST Lancashire pupils and parents have been urged to nominate their favourite teachers and support staff who have gone above and beyond during the pandemic for an award.

This year's Educate Awards has a number of categories that give recognition to those who have gone far beyond what is required of them.

The deadline for entries is midnight on Sunday, July 5, with the shortlist announced in September, and final winners revealed in November as part of a glittering ceremony at the Liverpool Cathedral.

Nearly in its tenth year, the Educate Awards is the one night of the year where the excellence of schools in Merseyside, Cheshire, Lancashire and Greater Manchester is celebrated and rewarded in a unique fashion.

The Teacher of the Year Award and School Support Star of the Year Award are just some of the categories open for students and their families, or headteachers and colleagues, to nominate someone special.

Kim O'Brien, founder of the Educate Awards, said: "The immediate response to the pandemic by schools and colleges should be widely applauded. The reaction from leadership teams, teachers, teaching assistants and non-teaching staff has been incredible and so we should be shining a spotlight on those who have continued to support our children and families, even when they haven't been able to see them face to face."

"Therefore, we are urging anyone who thinks their teacher, or another member of staff from their school or college, should be celebrated at this year's Educate Awards, to enter this year and let them know how much they truly mean to you."

To enter, simply visit www.educateawards.co.uk and submit your entry for free, ensuring you don't go over the 750 word limit.

For more information on the remaining categories, visit educateawards.co.uk/educate-awards-categories/

Thousands avoid hospital visit thanks to new 'hear and treat' telephone service

Report by Tom Martin

MORE than 10,500 people across the North West avoided an unnecessary trip to hospital last month thanks to telephone clinical assessment and advice from the ambulance service.

North West Ambulance Service (NWAS) has a team dedicated to 'hear and treat', which involves getting back in touch with people who have called 999 and are not in a serious or life-threatening situation but could benefit from the right care at home without an emergency ambulance or trip to hospital.

The clinical hub, which comprises paramedics, nurses, pharmacists, mental health professionals, dispatchers and administration staff, will assess callers before arranging the right care for their needs.

In most cases, this would be general self-care advice or a referral for safe care closer to home through a local primary care or community care service.

In the three months from Feb-April 2020, NWAS hear and treat rates increased by 35%. During April 2020 alone, at the peak of the COVID-19 pandemic, 10,616 patients received telephone self-care advice or onward referral - a 30% increase year-on-year.

The telephone assessments have helped thousands of people

As well as supporting patients, the clinical hub offers telephone advice to paramedic emergency service colleagues who are on scene with patients.

It assists with decision making and can advise on locally available services which may be appropriate to care for the patient if the face-to-face clinical assessment has determined they are well enough to avoid a trip to hospital.

The increase in hear and treat reflects efforts by NWAS to boost its workforce in response to COVID-19 pandemic and ensure emergency resources remain available to attend serious incidents.

Remote and home working was implemented to support clinical hub colleagues at increased risk of illness to remain at work, while maintaining service capacity.

Clinical Hub Service Delivery Manager, John Kelly, said: "The increase in hear and treat is significant, as it comes during a period when demand was intensified. We always want to deliver the right care, at the right time to patients and to ensure we can quickly reach those who need us, we should only send an ambulance when it is clinically required - not everyone who calls 999 needs an emergency response."

"The clinical hub continues to care for those patients who, despite not being in a life-threatening situation, still need our help to get the most appropriate support available to them."

"It's important to highlight that in many cases, the clinical hub will refer patients to other local services in the community, which individuals may have been able to access more quickly themselves."

"Therefore we ask members of the public to consider carefully which health service would be most appropriate for them before dialling 999 - if the problem is not a life-threatening emergency, please visit 111.nhs.uk for urgent care advice or speak to your GP or pharmacist. This helps us keep 999 free for the most serious incidents."

Scaffolding that 'blocked pathway' is removed after complaints from residents

SCAFFOLDING on a public footpath in Ormskirk which locals claimed was blocking access and causing problems has been taken down.

West Lancashire MP Rosie Cooper, who had been supporting locals in their complaints, has welcomed the removal of the scaffolding on Bridge Street.

Residents had claimed they were unable to use the footpath, and neighbours had also complained that the scaffolding was both an inconvenience and an eyesore.

Last week, the wall which has been propped up by the scaffolding for many years was finally being demolished.

The MP said: "The structural engineer's report I have seen explains that the old retaining wall was poorly designed and constructed and an outward lean had developed, necessitating the erection of the scaffolding."

"Residents will be pleased that following the removal of the scaffolding, Preston firm Imacadam are now on site and have now taken down the unsafe wall. I hope the wall is rebuilt quickly and that the footpath will once again open to residents.

MP Rosie Cooper at the scaffolding on Bridge Street, Ormskirk

"Residents have long had to put up with unsightly and obtrusive scaffolding along Bridge Street for far too long."

Girlguiding groups meet online to make the most of lockdown!

DURING the COVID-19 outbreak, many of the volunteer leaders with units in Girlguiding Sefton and West Lancashire have taken their meetings online to keep in touch with youngsters.

Instead of an actual meeting every week, units have been busy with Zoom meetings and this has allowed them to enjoy scavenger hunts, exercise classes and worked on elements from the Girlguiding programme, such as healthy eating, construction and mindfulness. If units can't meet via Zoom their leaders are emailing and posting activities to their girls, even dropping them through letterboxes on their daily walks just so they can continue that important link with members.

Anger at council plan to demolish pagoda in Wheatsheaf Walk

by Danielle Thompson

PLANS to remove the pagoda at Wheatsheaf Walk, in Ormskirk, to 'aid business recovery' following the coronavirus lockdown have been slammed as 'outrageous.'

Recommendations to West Lancs Brough Council ahead of the next Cabinet meeting are for 'part of the works to improve the public realm at Wheatsheaf Walk in Ormskirk, namely the removal of the pagoda and planters, is brought forward to aid business recovery and social distancing following the COVID-19 lockdown.'

The proposed scheme will be discussed at the Council's Executive Overview and Scrutiny Committee this Friday (June 26).

Our West Lancashire Councillor Adrian Owens said: "If the community aren't involved in drawing up town centre development plans, don't be surprised when they get a big thumbs down. There is something drastically wrong with the way the Borough Council plans new projects for Ormskirk Town Centre.

"There has been a large public outcry to proposals to remove the 'pagoda' in Wheatsheaf Walk.

"One thing's for sure. The residents of Ormskirk care passionately about what the council proposes in the town centre.

A spokesperson for West Lancs Borough Council responded: "We very much share the passion for West Lancashire to be a great place to live and work and because of this we welcome comments and listen to suggestions from people living and working in the borough when we are planning to make improvements.

"To help public consultations we draw up plans beforehand to demonstrate and inform our communities how we believe a scheme will make the area better and what it would look like. These plans are really good to start conversations to understand what matters most to people and we really value the opinions people share with us.

"We did hold a public consultation on the options for the Wheatsheaf Walk scheme last summer and invited the community to speak directly to officers about the different proposals and the plans we shared. The majority of people who responded to this public consultation were in favour of the option to remove the pagoda for a new scheme, and so, subsequently, and having listened to the various views of those who responded, staff have recommended that the decision be made to remove the pagoda and planters from Wheatsheaf Walk.

"The next step is that the proposed scheme will be discussed at the Council's Executive Overview and Scrutiny Committee on June 26 which has a wider representation of Councillors to ensure we approach projects in an inclusive way. The Executive Overview and Scrutiny Committee is a cross party committee."

Three arrested and stolen moped seized by police after yobs converge on cycle path

Report by Tom Martin

THREE people were arrested after a stolen moped was seized on a cycle path between Ormskirk and Maghull.

Officers were on patrol along the Cheshire Lines path, which runs from Plex Moss Lane, in Ormskirk, to Sefton Lane, in Maghull, on Friday, June 12.

During the day of police action, officers arrested three males in connection with a suspected stolen moped, which was seized.

Constable Alan Thompson said: "The operation came in response to a number of reports of off-road bikes being ridden dangerously along the cycle path which runs from Lancashire to Merseyside, and we have had some pleasing results, with arrests and the recovery of a moped.

"The reckless use of these bikes, as we have seen before, can result in serious injury or even worse. They can also present a great nuisance for the local communities and it's vital that parents, guardians, family members and friends think seriously before allowing young people to own or use them.

"Through Operation Brookdale, we will continue to work to eradicate the illegal use of these bikes, and I would like to emphasise how important the help of the public is in doing this. If you know of where these bikes are being ridden or stored, let us know so we can take action.

"We regularly seize such vehicles off the back of information, and if we can do so before they are out causing harm in the communities, then all the better. All information can and is acted upon to take illegally used vehicles from the streets."

Anyone with information on the anti-social and nuisance use of off-road bikes is encouraged to keep reporting incidents to @MerPolCC, call 101 or @Crimestopper-UK on 0800 555 111 and we will keep taking action #OpBrookdale

Mum with cancer gets help from her family to raise £1,650 for charity

Report by Tom Martin

AN Ormskirk mum who was diagnosed with cancer has helped raise £1,650 for charity after taking part in a walking challenge.

Paula Cann, 50, along with six members of her family, signed up for the 'Walk in Her Name Step Challenge', in aid of Ovarian Cancer Action.

It involved the family having to record 295,000 steps between them in a month, in recognition of the 295,000 women who are diagnosed with ovarian cancer around the world every year.

Paula was diagnosed with ovarian cancer in 2016 and since then she has undergone a number of operations and treatment.

Despite the target of 295,000 steps, Paula and her family easily surpassed this figure but kept going to complete as many as possible!

Her proud husband, Ray, said: "Despite setbacks she continues to show an inspirational strength. In May last year, just before chemotherapy, she ran the 5k Pretty Muddy for Cancer Research, then in September she organised an afternoon tea party for Maggie's, a charity providing free cancer support, raising over £700."

"Only last month she and our family signed up for the 295k Step Challenge, raising £1,650 along the way."

Charity continues to give financial advice to people during lockdown

A SUPPORT service for West Lancashire residents wants people to know they are still active and looking to help locals.

South West Lincs Independent Advice Network is a local charity that has been providing advice and support in West Lancashire for 40 years.

They have expertise in benefits advice, debt counselling and employment law, and they are there to help with advice that is free of charge.

Chairman, Paul McConnell said: "We want people to know that we are still here and available to offer advice and support just like we always have been."

"We have totally adapted the way we provide support to meet these exceptional times and believe this way of working will be our new 'normal'. We now offer clients one-to-one advice over the phone, text, e-mail, Twitter DM, Facebook DM, WhatsApp and Zoom."

"Sadly our weekly outreach surgeries at Age

Concern in Ormskirk, The Grove Children's Centre in Burscough and full time opening at our main offices and Learn My Way suite in Skelmersdale are suspended for now, but if you would like to get in touch, we are always here for you"

Heritage group gets £400 boost

SKELMERSDALE Heritage Society has received a grant of almost £400 to help put on displays of their photographs and film footage.

The funding has come from the Eric Wright Trust, administered by West Lancashire Council for Voluntary Service.

The Heritage Society is currently assembling an archive of photographs and film footage and the money will pay for a projector and screen to assist with display.

Chairman Mark Boardman said: "This grant means that in future we shall be able to share discoveries with the wider public as well as with our members."

Botanist growing a career on TV!

University graduate is sprouting up on our screens to offer expert advice

Report by Tom Martin

SINCE graduating from Edge Hill University, ecology student Joshua Styles has grown a career as a top botanist and conservationist and is now makes regular appearances on major TV shows.

Joshua completed a three-year BSc in Ecology after discovering a passion for plant conservation when volunteering for Cheshire Wildlife Trust, Lancashire Wildlife Trust and Martin Mere.

Joshua said: "I have always had a strong connection with the natural world from an early age. In my teens, I became a local wildlife site surveyor for the Cheshire Wildlife Trust (CWT) and volunteered with Cheshire Rangers, both of which taught me a lot about conservation and the environment."

During his time at Edge Hill, Joshua created a biodiversity action plan for the campus to identify key habitats and species.

The plan was given to grounds maintenance staff in Facilities Management to help them manage green spaces in a way that would be beneficial for local wildlife.

Joshua's pioneering work even led to the discovery of a rare Dune Helleborine orchid on campus, one of only 100 locations in the UK where the plant has been recorded.

Joshua, who lives in Sandbach, in Cheshire, added: "Things really clicked into place for me when I studied my degree at Edge Hill. I learnt so much about ecology from my amazing tutors and made lots of contacts in the sector.

"Since graduating I've gained three jobs that I love and have been able to share my love for the natural world by appearing on TV."

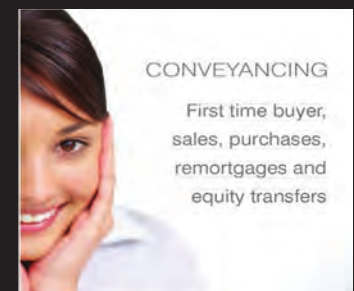

Recently Joshua has ventured into the world of entertainment and is now running his own YouTube channel in addition to appearing on well-known shows such as BBC Springwatch, the ONE Show, BBC News, Sky News, Channel 4 news and Atlas Obscura.

Aside from his TV work, Joshua is balancing three jobs and has founded the hugely successful North-West Rare Plant Initiative (NWRPI), a group which aims to protect rare plants in the region.

RSPCA appeals for 'vital donations' as horse and pony call-outs increase

Charity has seen cases rise in Lancashire during lockdown as animals are neglected

Report by Danielle Thompson

THE RSPCA is appealing for vital donations to help it prepare for an influx of horses and ponies desperately in need of help, as cases increase in Lancashire.

In 2019, the charity received reports of more than 5,236 incidents involving horses in the north of England, 632 of which were in Lancashire.

Shockingly, since the coronavirus lockdown started in March, they have received 59 more reports across Lancashire.

Christine McNeil, the charity's National Equine Inspectors Co-Ordinator said: "This is a truly worrying time for equine charities - we still haven't got a handle on the repercussions of the current horse crisis, and it now looks like the worst is yet to come."

"In April 2011, before the effects of the financial recession had hit, the RSPCA had 290 horses in its care, already more than our official stables could house."

"By May 2012, the number of horses in our care had leapt to 600. Fast-forward to today, and we're caring for 927 horses - that's three times the amount since the crisis hit, and we strongly fear that the impact will be even worse this time round."

"With such a huge number of horses in our care, and so many in private boarding, at great cost, we have already had to adapt how we try to help as many horses as we can. For example, several 'herds' of horses in need are being cared for in situ with our officers visiting regularly to feed and care for them, until we can find spaces in one of our centres for them, or funds to transport them to private boarding."

The RSPCA is appealing for help with animals like these Shetland ponies

The current horse crisis is thought to have been sparked by continued overbreeding, coupled with falling demand for some types of horses.

Threats of a financial recession this year has led to fears that irresponsible horse breeders will continue to breed their animals in a bid to turn a quick profit and that existing horse owners will struggle financially to keep their animals and cover vet bills. This may lead to animals suffering, and some may even resort to abandoning their animals out of desperation.

The charity spends approximately £5,200 a year for the care of each horse taken in - more than £4.8million each year.

Christine added: "The public's help is absolutely vital to keep the RSPCA afloat during this extremely difficult time. We can't stress how much we need loving homes for our horses and ponies, and we are urging those with experience of horses to please consider rehoming one of our wonderful rescue horses."

To help the RSPCA keep rescuing horses, providing them with essential veterinary care, rehabilitation, and finding them new homes through these unprecedented times, go to rspca.org.uk/covid Glass artisan shows her love for charity!

A GLASS maker from Mawdesley has been showing her true colours for charity - by creating rainbow themed hearts!

Julie Langan, a glass artisan whose workshop and gallery are located at Cedar Farm Galleries in Mawdesley, has raised nearly £7,000 for Wigan charity, The Brick' from the sale of uniquely created fused glass rainbows and rainbow hearts, during the coronavirus crisis.

The Brick provides support for people who are homeless, in crisis or facing poverty and due to the pandemic, and for food parcels from its food bank.

Julie said: "This particular project and The Brick meant so much to me as it is so easy for anybody from any background, through no fault of their own, to suddenly be facing difficult times financially, which in turn can have a massive effect mentally."

"Since the beginning of the lockdown, I wanted to make some items for charity. Rainbows were an obvious choice as they mean so much to everyone in so many different ways."

"For me personally, they symbolise that no matter how desperate a situation seems, there is always something beautiful to look for and that something positive always comes out of every situation, no matter how bleak it feels at the time."

"Rainbows are definitely a real symbol of hope during this crisis."

Julia shows off her unique glass hearts

Cancer centres turn to home treatments

Move means patients don't have to attend hospital for their appointments

Report by Tom Martin

TWO cancer centres in our region are 'pulling out all the stops' to ensure people can get care during the coronavirus pandemic.

The Clatterbridge Cancer Centre, in Merseyside, and The Christie Cancer Centre, in Manchester, have rapidly mobilised the use of phone and video consultations, with 85% of all patient appointments at Clatterbridge now taking place remotely.

The two hospitals have also significantly increased the use of chemo at home, with local pharmacy teams and community nurses providing the service to reduce cancer patients' risk of exposure to the virus.

At Clatterbridge, the number of people receiving treatment at home from specialist chemotherapy nurses has increased by 15% during the outbreak and volunteers have made 401 home deliveries of oral chemotherapy and medication to patients who don't have anyone who can collect it for them.

Karen James, from Southport, used to go to hospital every three weeks for intravenous cancer treatment but now receives it at home from specialist nurses.

She said: "Before lockdown, I had been going to hospital every three weeks for my cancer treatment. I'm on targeted therapies that are delivered via a drip and the whole process took about six hours, including two to three hours travelling there and back.

"Now I have my treatment at home. The home treatment team from Clatterbridge have been fantastic and my treatment is done and dusted in a couple of hours. You build a really strong bond with the nurses because they can sit down and chat to you. It's more personal and I feel much more relaxed because I'm in my own home. It has made a big difference being able to have treatment at home."

Dr David Levy, NHS North West Medical Director, said: "NHS staff are working hard to ensure that patients can safely access essential services such as cancer checks and urgent surgery.

"Being able to offer treatment and consultations to people in their own homes ensures they are getting the same high standard of care they are used to and they don't have to attend hospital for regular appointments.

"We know that fewer people have been coming forward with cancer symptoms during this time and hope this will reassure them that the NHS is still there for them and assessments and treatments are still happening. People should contact their doctor if they have any persistent or worrying symptoms."

If I disagree with your beliefs... I can still be a decent human being and your friend

I'm sick of covid-19. I'm sick of black vs white. I'm sick of Tory vs Labour. I'm sick of gay vs straight. I'm sick of Christians vs atheists.

I'm sick of no one being allowed to think what they want without offending someone.

I am sick of people blaming the whole world for the sins of a few.

We're one race - the human race. You want to support Boris Johnson? You do so. It's your choice. You want to support Kier Starmer? Fine, your choice!

But stop thrusting your beliefs on others and deal with the fact that they don't have the same exact mind-set as you.

Having our own minds is what makes us all individual and beautiful. If you can't handle the fact that you may have a friend that has opposing views as you, then you are not any better than the bigots and the racists.

I don't have to agree with everything you believe to be a decent human being and your friend.

Jack Colbert,
Seaforth

Do we really want to get back to 'normal'?

I have heard many people say they hope things can just get back to normal.

Do we really mean that?

Back to undervaluing our nurses, doctors, supermarket staff and refuse collectors, by paying people who can kick, hit or throw a ball, one thousand times more than any of those 'key worker' occupations receive.

Back to shallow celebrities shedding a tear on television for other celebrities they hardly know.

Perhaps they could shed a tear for our doctors, nurses and care workers, who have died saving the lives of people they have never met.

Back to trashing our planet and polluting the air we breathe, damaging children's lungs and obscuring the blue sky people in densely populated cities can see again.

Back to Brexit which was so important a few weeks ago. It filled our newspapers and led the television news day after day, week after week. Has anyone given it a second thought recently?

People certainly need to get back to work, but perhaps have a think about their priorities and values.

Graham Brown,
Ainsdale

Open spaces swallowed up across district

Over the past year or two, Burscough and Ormskirk district has seen the rapid development of much needed housing.

It is a shame that previous open spaces have been swallowed up and as far as I can tell there are few, if any, of the houses which I would call affordable.

I was shocked to see land by Abbey lane, Burscough has been cleared ready for more housing. I wonder what circumstances are necessary for planning permission to be refused?

This site is close to the road leading to the tip and an industrial park. This road is subject to flooding and has frequent heavy vehicles using it.

In addition the main road is narrow and often has traffic congestion - this new development will only make things worse.

I very much doubt that the lack of infrastructure for all these developments has been taken into account.

Dr D C Cottam,
Burscough

Starmer wasn't defending the benefactors of slavery

Re: 'Good riddance to parasitic creatures' Champion Letters (17/06/20)

Sir Keir Starmer was not defending the benefactors of slavery, nor is he objecting to the Black Lives Matter protests when he stated Colston's statue should have been removed and placed in a museum to educate people about its history.

It is important we do not ignore history or we could end up electing a Prime Minister who prints his racist views in a newspaper. We may even advocate putting signs on buses telling foreigners to go home.

We could even elect a Prime Minister who has descendants that benefited from compensation after the Slavery Abolition Act of 1833.

We need to do more than smash statues if we seriously believe that Black Lives Matter!

Stephen McGlame,
Southport

● In response to the Letter to the Editor from Mark Holt.

Kier Starmer did not come to Colston's aid, he was disagreeing to the manner in which the statue was brought down.

In fact he said the statue should never have been there in the first place, or at least taken down long ago in a proper manner.

The omitting of certain facts changes the whole story.

Pat Johnston,
Litherland

PICTURE of the week

Charlotte Nixon, who lives in Burscough, sent in this wonderful shot taken alongside the nearby Leeds-Liverpool Canal. Charlotte, a Southport firefighter, said: "I usually take my camera when I walk my Cockapoo, Lola, and thought the photograph captured a perfect circle."

Patching is waste of money

'Council gives green light to £5 million to be spent on road repairs', as reported in the Champion.

Nearly half-a-million pounds will be spent on pot holes on rural roads using a technique called spray injection patching.

Spray injection patching is a failure with a life of about three months. Why bother with this inadequate make shift waste of money.

Unless it is done properly by excavating the pot hole and over filling to a level above the surrounding surface eg like an inverted dinner plate, it is a complete waste of time and money.

The council's work force are good at paper work and little else. Supervision of contractors are an anathema to them.

In my opinion, its all about knowing and understanding and being able to confront.

PRAYERS

MIRACULOUS INVOCATION TO ST THERESE

O Glorious St. Therese, whom Almighty God has raised up to aid and inspire the human family, I implore your Miraculous Intercession. You are so powerful in obtaining every need of body and spirit from the Heart of God. Holy Mother Church proclaims you "Prodigy of Miracles... the greatest saint of Modern Times." Now I fervently beseech you to answer my petition (mention in silence here) and to carry out your promises of spending heaven doing good on earth... of letting fall from Heaven a Shower of Roses. Little Flower, give me your childlike faith, to see the Face of God in the people and experiences of my life, and to love God with full confidence. St. Therese, my Carmelite Sister, I will fulfill your plea "to be made known everywhere" and I will continue to lead others to Jesus through you. Amen

J.S.

PRAYER TO ST JUDE

May the Most Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, and loved in all the tabernacles until the end of time. Amen.

May the most Sacred Heart of Jesus be praised and glorified now and forever. Amen.

St. Jude pray for us and hear our prayers. Amen.

Blessed be the Sacred Heart of Jesus

Blessed be the Immaculate Heart of Mary

Blessed be St. Jude Thaddeus, in all the world and for all Eternity.

Our Father

Hail Mary

Say for 9 days and prayers will be answered and the prayer must be published.

All of Dacia's models are now offered in bi-fuel form

DACIA is now offering all of its models in bi-fuel form – meaning that they can run both on petrol and Liquid Petroleum Gas, or LPG for short.

Order the TCe 100 Bi-Fuel versions of the Sandero, Duster or Logan MCV and they'll be able to fill up at the pumps on LPG, which generally gives you a slightly worse mile-per-gallon figure than petrol – but is significantly cheaper to buy.

Go to www.dacia.co.uk for more information.

Right: The latest Dacia Duster can run on LPG as well as petrol

Hefty discounts as showrooms re-open

MITSUBISHI is offering a series of hefty discounts of its models as its showrooms open up for business again.

From now until September 28 it's taking £1,000 off the price of the Mirage, £2,500 on the Eclipse Cross, £3,500 on the Eclipse Cross and £4,000 off its Outlander PHEV hybrid off-roader (shown, left).

The deal also includes free delivery of the car to your home – or the dealership, if you prefer – as the manufacturer adjusts to restrictions in the UK-wide coronavirus lockdown.

Go to www.mitsubishi-cars.co.uk to find out more about the latest offers.

It's a 2020 Range Rover, but the colour of this special edition is delightfully 1970s

After lockdown ended, I found out that all of the UK's cars are either white, black or silver!

HURRAH! After what feels like an eternity of being stuck at home, I've finally been allowed to get behind the wheel for a longer drive – and promptly re-discovered that every car is white, black or silver.

Obviously I was reading straight from my freshly delivered issue of Hypocrites Monthly – I was behind the wheel of a borrowed Skoda Superb, daubed in a shade of grey straight out of a wet Monday morning in Manchester. However, after ten weeks of working from home and looking at pictures of Avenger Tigers and Escort Mexicos in eye-popping colours, it was a grim reminder that virtually all new cars are now sold in me-too monochrome.

So I entirely understand why car nuts have ended up so excited about the new Range Rover Fifty, a new special edition to mark the plush mud-plugger's half-century. Nobody seemed to notice that Land Rover's capping numbers at a neat 1,970 (geddit?) or that it has an individually numbered commemorative plaque, neatly integrated into the centre console – nope, none of that matters because you can order it in Tuscan Blue!

It's a retina-scorching Seventies shade straight out of the car's original brochure and a colour I'm very familiar with, as my dad owns a 39-year-old Rangie painted in it. You can also order it in oh-so-Seventies beige – sorry, Bahama Gold – or in Davos White, a rather subtler option from this 4x4's early days, but I'm surprised the chaps at Solihull didn't go even further. It's probably a good thing I'm a journalist rather than a captain of industry, because I'd be ordering mine in Lincoln Green, given enough spare cash.

But it begs the question – if Land Rover can do it, why can't everyone else? Vauxhall's Insignia isn't a bad-looking mid-range saloon, but imagine how much memorable it'd be if it was offered in Sun-glow – the exact look-at-me yellow that some early adopters of the original Cavalier went for. MG is missing a trick too. Why isn't the GS offered in Bracken (brownish orange, which looks better than it sounds), Vermillion (reddish-orange) or Limeflower (greenish-yellow)? I know that on paper these sound as tragic as avocado bathrooms, but in a world where Fifty Shades of Grey isn't just a terrible film, but the sobering reality of most car brochures, they're refreshingly different.

I suppose it isn't just exteriors that could do with some Seventies-inspired makeovers, either. Did you know that the original Lotus Esprit came with tartan-trimmed seats, presumably thought up by someone binge-listening to the Bay City Rollers, as standard? Still, baby steps and all that...
